CITIES RISE

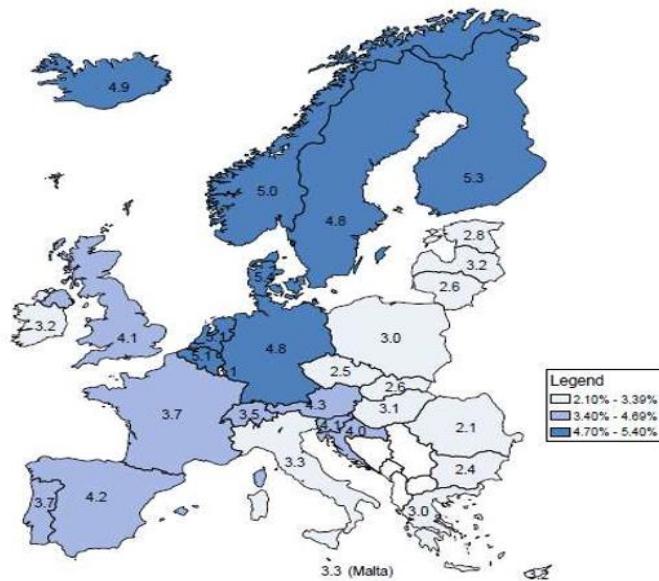

Agenda

... there is much to do in Europe!

The total costs of mental health problems are more than 4% of GDP across EU countries, ranging from 2% to 5%

Estimated direct and indirect costs related to mental health problems across EU countries, as a % of GDP, 2015

The WHO model is a service organisation pyramid describing an optimal mix of services for mental health. The most costly services are the least frequently needed, whereas the most needed services can be provided at a relatively low cost. Self-care features through all services and all levels of the pyramid. Reproduced from WHO.⁸¹

What is important for us?

Normal world

Focusing on individual needs

on even handed level

Orientation into the Community

Negotiation rather than treatment

Home treatment

Deinstitutionalization

Made-to-measure, Multi-professional, Personal Model project at Pfalzklinikum

- Term of 8 years, starting January 2020.
- Biggest model project in Germany* regarding financial volume and service range.
- Coherent treatment, integrative and focused on the individual for children, young adults and adults.
- Treating affected individuals differently, not treating different individuals.
- Fluent transitions between hospital inpatients, outpatient services and ambulatory services.
- Steady set of caregivers all along the therapeutic path.
- Increased degree of visiting care by multi-professional teams.
- Stronger involvement of affected individuals and their environment during the treatment.
- Sub-projects within the model project: personnel and organizational development; funding and finance; services and structures; evaluation and communication

* after § 64b SGB V
